Join The Fort Ross Interpretive Association

To help bring alive a unique part of California history.

The rich history of Fort Ross begins with the Kashaya Pomo, the Native Californians who have inhabited this area for centuries . . .

From 1812 to 1841 Settlement Ross, was a thriving Russian-American Company settlement inhabited by Russians, Creoles, and Native Alaskans and Californians . . .

After 1841 the pioneering American ranching and logging years began on the rugged Sonoma Coast.

Fort Ross Interpretive Association (FRIA) was formed to promote the educational and interpretive activities of Fort Ross State Historic Park. We are dedicated to the protection and interpretation of the cultural and natural history of Fort Ross and Salt Point. Membership dues, proceeds from the Museum Bookstore, donations, and grants assist with the following:

- Publication and distribution of literature to interpret the cultural and natural history of this area . . .
- Daily year-round staffing and interpretation in the Fort Ross Visitor Center . . .
- Support for the preservation of historic buildings — surveys, restoration, and furnishing plans . . .
- Exhibit design and the acquisition of display materials and collections . . .
- Acquisition and maintenance of the Fort Ross research and lending library . . .
- Acquisition of grants . . .
- Support for historic, ethnographic and archaeological studies and seminars . . .
- Maintenance of the Call Ranch house and gardens and historic orchard . . .
- Support for special events at Fort Ross such as Cultural Heritage Day . . .
- Development and maintenance of the FRIA website:
